The Attorney-General said that concluded his onse, and he then proceeded to address the court again on behalf of his elients at considerable length. He submitted first that on the facts the "A. D. The bet, a defendants were not liable at all; and secondly that if they were liable for anything was for nothing approaching the amount the armpit and caught in the coat, and the claimed by the plaintiffs. The facts of the case were, he thought, that both vessels were many miles out of the usual course to Shanghai, and were being navigated with produce, as they were going where they might get shelter from an defence, asked no questions. impending typhoon. Capt. Wilding had not verted the Agamemnon from her regular course to go to the Hengkong, but was evidently going to get under the White Dog Island for shelter. The plaintiffs claimed for the delay, however, as if they had been delayed in a voyage proceeding under ordinary circumstances, and they claimed the extravagant amount of $2,668.66 for the delay Mr. Francis said the amount was put at that. leure by a miscalculation; it should have been but at just half that amount $1,383.33, which was harging for two days at a rate of £125 per day. The Attorney-General submitted that that also was an extravegant claim. The Agamemnon was only saked to take the passengers on board, and it would not occupy anything like two days to transfer them, therefore she could not have remained two days on that account. She was enoumbered by having a vessel in tow called Li Tai, a typhoon was imminent, and she mus have stopped to take shelter. If she did not stop in the place she intended, she stopped in one that was better protected; had she gone on she would have been more exposed, and the utmost extennot exceed five or air miles. It was evidently necessary for her to remain by the Li Tai, for Capt. Wilding sent a letter by Capt. Fryer to died worth at least £15,000,000, without countcochow to ask for assistance to relieve him of ling the increase in value that has undoubtedly the burden of this vessel. BOMBAY, 22rd November. The coremony of laying the foundation stone of the Hormusjee Pestonjee Cama Hospital for Women and Children took place in the afternoon at 4.80. A semi-circular pavilion was erected pear the stone, and a select gathering assembled thereat to await the arrival of the Duke. Immense crowds lined the roads, which were splendidly kept by the police, and great excitement and enthusiasm prevailed. Punctual to time. His Royal Highness, accompanied by the Duchess and the Governor, arrived on the ecoue and all were most heartily received. The Governor then. introduced Mr. Hormusjee Pestonjee Cams, the donor of the hospital, to the Duke, and Mr. Cama's nephew read an address pointing out the disadvantages under which the women of India are placed for want of female medical practitioners. recognizing the liberality of Government in granting the site for the Haspital, and tendoring thanks for the kindness of His Royal Highness in coming to lay the stone. The Duke replied, expressing the pleasure he had in performng the ceremony, the regret he felt in not doing it with Masonie honours, and testifying to the interest in such hospital work that the Queen took. In addition to his gift of one lakh and twenty thousand rupees towards the cost of Survey Department, appeared, on remand, to the erecting-the-new-Obstetric-Hospital, Bombay, Mr. Cama has intimated his intention of giving Rs.25,000 to found scholarships for women.

CALCUTTA, 4th December Despite unfavourable weather, the opening peremony of the International Exhibition was a great success. The Exhibition was declared opened with a flourish of trumpets, after which the whole party visited various courts, and had respective exhibitors presented to the Viceroy and the Dake during the stay in the Indian Court. Considerable time was spent by the Duke and the Vicercy in the Bombay court, where Sir James Fergusson, through Mr. Grif-The Viceregal party than left.

Throughout the whole proceedings no demonstration of public feeling was manifested, though sometimes an occasional hiss was smothered by cheers for the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Also a variety of anatomical and zoological dissections was fairly good. Another pavillion devoted to military exhibits is of great interest. The roof is decorated with regimental colours, some of which are of historical interest. Other contents are, signalling apparatus, entrenching tools, ammunition of all sizes and kinds in different stages of manufacture, the components and varieties of gunpowder; saddlery and uniforms, with samples of materials, and specimens of all medals and orders from the earliest dates be-

'MPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PURTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to soin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science cenerally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for whidents of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given. the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those wast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration :--Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Melhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grummars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely re quires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which ROOMS 20 AND 21, MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, bave one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto, pub-

AN ENGAGING LEGEND. The Springfield Herald tells an engaging legend of Mr. Childers and Lucinde Philips. worthy Americans of this neighbourhood, They were married in 1856. When the Civil War broke out Mr. Childers answered his country's summons, in due course was reported killed, and the widow married a gentlemen named Philipps, who had judiciously stayed at home. With him the war-worn soldier found her on returning. He caused no unpleasantness, but promptly and sympathetically reduced himself to the same criminal state of bigamy. The second Mrs. Childers died in ten years, but as Mr. Philipps persisted in living on with the blameless Lucinde, the tender widower had no choice but to take another wife. This lady also died before Mr. Philipps, and Childers began almost to despair. But at length that interlopinggentleman submitted to the fate of all humanity and left Lucinde a widow. Forthwith then did the nationt Childers make himself known to her, and with all convenient spead they were married a second time. If ever a marriage was clearly and this of Childers and Lucinde. For after get it," returned Mumb, calmly. demonstrably arranged by fate, it should be testing its genuineness all ways, with a good ! deal of iteration on the busband's part, they returned solaced and convinced to their early love.
